ADVANCED SANDBLASTING SYSTEMS

WHY BLASTING

The ever increasing requests for sophisticated and consequently expensive machines and equipment has created the need to apply highly protective paints designed to preserve these materials from wear of time.

The application of these products requires a careful cleaning of the surfaces that can be achieved with a sandblasting treatment: that is, by spraying abrasives against the surfaces to be treated, an operation that uses the kinetic energy produced by compressed air.

Abrasives, of various shapes and types, with their impact remove the surface layer of the piece. It is clear that different types of abrasive and required power will correspond to different surfaces and finishes.

We at PROTECH don't just supply a wide range of machines and equipment, we examine the customer's problem and try to solve it the best way.
